recognize her "great accomplishment" of graduating from college. Attending were family and friends from Portales, NM, Plainview, Dumas, Houston, Dallas, Olton and Hart.

She is the granddaughter of Albino and Aurelia Garza, and Agustin Perez, Sr. and the late Anita Perez, all of Hart.

She currently is employed at Master Graphics, LLC, Plainview, a business owned by her parents.

DeLesa is eyeing the fast-paced lifestyle of Dallas as a career move.

Business Declines To Offer Information

Whit Whitaker, manager of the local branch of Northern Ag, told The Pulse editor, Neoma Williams, on Tuesday morning that the company declines any comments on the leg that was damaged by high winds in May.

He said it's company policy to not make public statements.

reciprocal agreement.

The Plainview concerts are held in Harral Memorial Auditorium on the campus of Wayland Baptist University, Plainview.

The 2014-15 season in Plainview includes:

- Simply Sinatra, Oct. 2, 2014, featuring Steve Lippia and His Big Band in a tribute to Frank Sinatra.

- Jason Coleman, Oct. 26, 2014, highlighting the piano magic of his grandfather, Floyd Cramer, as he plays a nostalgic lineup of country, pop and easy listening standards to ensure that "the legacy continues."

- Paul McDermand, Jan. 13, 2015, presenting beautiful fun-loving steel drum and marimba settings of Caribbean, Jazz and Pop favorites.

- Nashville Live, March 6, 2015, celebrating songs that made Nashville famous, with country singers and dancers backed by a bonafide Nashville band.

Attendance at the concerts is by season subscription. The entire concert series of four performances is only $40 for adults and $10 for students. Also available is a $90 family subscription and a $50 single-parent subscription.

For more information, call 293-4979 or 292-0471 or visit www.liveinplainview.org to order online.

School Board Business

The following is a compilation of business taken up at recent school board meetings.

After receiving a bid of $350 a game from Lubbock Sports Medicine, the school board instead approved using Supt. Ken Rosser as the school's trainer. He is licensed for this, and he will be taking continuing education this summer at a cost of $600.

The Board has approved the employment of Chris Fry as assistant football coach, and Randy Stutes as a part-time math teacher. He recently retired from Plainview ISD, where he taught math.

The Board accepted the resignation of secondary math teacher Kay Harris. She told The Pulse that she is returning to Lubbock, where she grew up, continued to Page 6
