

Blake Jones, left, of Lewisville, tries his luck with a playing card magician during Hart Days. Blake is the grandson of Weldon and Jonalyn Jones.

HHS Class of 2015

This Time Was Supposed to Be Different

By Lee H. Hamilton

The most important function Congress serves is to debate and pass the federal budget. I know — it also levies taxes, imposes or relaxes regulations, and once in a while nudges our social, economic or political order in a meaningful way. But the budget tells the government what to do and makes it possible to do it. Everything else follows from that.

Even at the best of times, passing a budget is a test of Congress's abilities. And these aren't the best of times. Its two houses are controlled by Republicans who don't see eye to eye. The White House is in the hands of a Democratic president who really doesn't agree with them.
