Ladyhorn Cross Country Team Looks To Return To State

Coach Ruby Romero says that she expects her Ladyhorn Cross Country Team, in spite of some injuries to key players, to return to state this year after getting there last year and coming in seventh out of 195 teams.

She said she introduced the girls to a strength-training program this year, and some of them have been taking therapy for injuries. Two of them, Lilly Ramirez and Candyce Neudorf, are expected to be medically released this week to return to the team. A third member, Kaitlyn Sweet, is also suffering from an injury. It looks like she is out until basketball.

At the LCU Rust Buster Relay on August 29 in Lubbock, the girls were paired in groups of two and ran a total of six miles per team. Yeiryanaly Minjarez and Marissa Godino placed ninth; Katie Sweet and Danielle Godino came in 17th; Esperanza Salazar and Laura Vega, 21st; and Abigail and Audrey Samaniego, 61st out of 69 teams.

On Saturday, Sept. 9, the girls came in sixth out of 27 teams at the Plains Invitational. Minjarez was 17th; Marissa Godino, 32nd; Danielle Godino, 33rd.

Kate Perez and Savana Rincon medaled in the top 25 for the JV team.

On Sept. 12, the team came in 4th at the Plainview Invitational. At Mae Simmons Park on Saturday in Lubbock, the team came in 5th.

As well as injuries, Romero said some are sick with sinus infections. She said she is going to let them rest this week to get healthier.
